Arkansas · written against Buyer's notification (no revision printed), issued under Ark. Code Ann. § 27-14-2301

The window sticker Arkansas requires before a branded vehicle can even be offered. The sheet says whose duty it is in capitals: the seller is required by law to affix this buyer's notification to a side window of this motor vehicle when it is offered for sale, to furnish a description of the damage sustained, and to disclose the title brand which will appear on the title. The seller ticks SALVAGE or REBUILT, describes the damage, repairs and replaced parts - based on the sworn statement executed by the rebuilder or restorer which is on file with the Arkansas Office of Motor Vehicles - and the buyer signs an acknowledgement that they read it. A phone line for the vehicle's salvage title history, (501) 682-4677, is printed on the sheet itself.

This sheet is not the form. Download the blank Buyer's notification from the Arkansas Department of Finance and Administration, Office of Motor Vehicle at <https://www.dfa.arkansas.gov/wp-content/uploads/SalvageTitleBuyersNotification.pdf> — always take the current revision from the agency rather than a copy. Print this and keep it beside you while you complete theirs.

Every line, in the order you meet it

1	YOU	The vehicle band	Year model, make, model description and VIN across the top rule. Watch out: Copy from the branded certificate. This sheet and that title are about to be read side by side by a cautious buyer - let them match.
2	YOU	Tick the brand the title actually bears	SALVAGE or REBUILT, exactly as the certificate's brand reads. Watch out: Selling mid-rebuild means SALVAGE, whatever the car looks like - the brand changes only when the reconstruction affidavit and the salvage title have gone in and the REBUILT title has come back.
3	YOU	Describe damage, repairs and parts	The six lines, drawn from the rebuilder's sworn statement on file with the Office of Motor Vehicles. Watch out: Keep your copy of the reconstruction affidavit for exactly this moment - condensing a document you hold beats reconstructing one you signed for two years ago.
4	YOU	Affix it, then sell the car	The completed sheet on a side window while the vehicle is offered for sale, and your signature and date in the seller block. Watch out: Photograph the car with the sticker visible in the advertisement photos. It is disclosure, defence and filter in one - buyers it deters were leaving anyway, later and angrier.
5	BUYER	The buyer signs the acknowledgement	Buyer signature and date under the printed acknowledgement that they read the form and understand the brand. Watch out: Staple the signed sheet to your copy of the bill of sale. Together they end the later argument this whole form exists to prevent.

What gets this one rejected

- Producing it at the handover instead of the advertisement. The duty is to affix it to a side window when the vehicle is offered for sale - disclosure after the test drive is disclosure late.
- A brand box that disagrees with the title. The sheet discloses the brand which will appear upon the title; ticking REBUILT while the certificate still says SALVAGE is a misdescription in writing.
- A description written from memory. The printed text ties it to the sworn statement executed by the rebuilder or restorer on file with the Office of Motor Vehicles - the reconstruction affidavit is the source document.
- No buyer signature. The acknowledgement block exists so the buyer cannot later claim the window sticker was never read; an unsigned one does half its job.
- Using it as a substitute for the branded title itself. The notification discloses; the assignment on the branded certificate still transfers, with all the ordinary Arkansas signing rules.

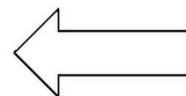

☒ Amber is what you write ☐ Grey is a block somebody else completes The completed example follows overleaf.
