Florida · written against HSMV 82091 (Rev 8/09), issued under section 319.33, Florida Statutes

Not your form, and the reason it is on this site is that people find it while searching for a way to reassign a Florida title and assume it is the general-purpose one. It is not. Its own notice says individuals or non-licensed dealers cannot use this form or reassign a certificate of title, and the department restricts it further still - to odometer exempt vehicles moving between licensed dealers.

This sheet is not the form. Download the blank HSMV 82091 from the Florida Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles at <https://www.flhsmv.gov/pdf/forms/82091.pdf> — always take the current revision from the agency rather than a copy. Print this and keep it beside you while you complete theirs.

Every line, in the order you meet it

1	DEALER	What the supplement is attached to	Florida certificate of title number, a foreign state certificate number, or a manufacturer's statement of origin - one of the three, with the number written in. Watch out: The line at the foot of the form is worth knowing as a buyer: this form is not valid unless attached to the title it supplements, originals only, copies are not acceptable. A photocopied supplement is not a chain of ownership.
2	DEALER	The purchaser and their details	Name, date of birth, driver licence number and residential address - and the same again for a co-purchaser if there is one. Watch out: If you are the purchaser named in one of these blocks, read your own details before you drive away. An error the dealer makes here becomes an error on your certificate, and correcting it later is your problem rather than theirs.
3	DEALER	Dealer licence number and the state that issued it	The licence number, and the state the dealer is licensed in. Watch out: The notice at the head of the form says the name of the dealer must be listed as it appears on the dealer licence. A trading name that does not match the licence is the kind of mismatch that unravels a reassignment months later.
4	DEALER	Odometer reading and date read	The reading and the day it was taken, on the same row as the licence details. Watch out: This form is restricted to odometer exempt vehicles, so the reading is recorded rather than disclosed. That is a real difference: an exempt vehicle's reading is information, not a federal statement, and it is not warranted by anybody.
5	DEALER	Sales tax collected, registration number, dealership and address	The tax the dealer has collected, their Florida sales tax registration number, the name of the dealership, its address and the date of signature. Watch out: The notice at the head says sales tax amount and sales tax number do not need to be completed on dealer to dealer sales. On a sale to a retail customer they do.
6	DEALER	The second reassignment block	An identical block underneath, for the next dealer in the chain. Watch out: The form says each reassignment shall be in successive order and is not valid until completed in full, and that it is to be used in order from top to bottom. A sheet with the second block filled in and the first one blank is not a shortcut - it is void.

What gets this one rejected

- A private seller's signature anywhere on it. Paragraph B of the notice rules it out in one sentence.
- Using it on a vehicle that is not exempt from odometer disclosure. The department's odometer procedure says this form can only be used for motor vehicles exempt from the federal and state disclosure laws.
- Out of order. Each reassignment shall be in successive order and is not valid until completed in full.
- Any correction at all. An alteration or erasure voids the assignment - and paragraph E quotes the felony provision, section 319.33, which covers altering or forging an assignment of a certificate of title or keeping an altered one for use.
- A photocopy, or a copy detached from the title it supplements.
- Late. The final note says a penalty fee is required by law if it is not submitted for transfer within 30 days after date of delivery by dealer to retail customer.
