How to fill out HSMV 82993 — Separate Odometer Disclosure Statement and Acknowledgment

Florida · written against HSMV 82993 (Rev 11/11), issued under section 319.225(4), Florida Statutes

</forms/florida/hsmv-82993-separate-odometer-disclosure/>

The mileage disclosure on its own, for the narrow case where there is nowhere else to make it. Its own instructions say who may use it: any person buying or selling a motor vehicle who must make or acknowledge an odometer disclosure to comply with state or federal odometer law, and who has not made one on another state or federal form.

This sheet is not the form. Download the blank HSMV 82993 from the Florida Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles at <https://www.flhsmv.gov/pdf/forms/82993.pdf> — always take the current revision from the agency rather than a copy. Print this and keep it beside you while you complete theirs.

Every line, in the order you meet it

1	YOU	The vehicle description strip	VIN, year, make, colour, body and title number, along the top of the sheet. Watch out: Six boxes and no room for approximation. If you are reaching for this form it is usually because the certificate is not in front of you, which is exactly when a VIN gets copied from the wrong place.
2	YOU	The title number	The Florida title number in the last box of that strip. Watch out: A disclosure that cannot be tied to a title record is a piece of paper with a number on it. If the title number is genuinely unavailable, that is a conversation to have at the counter before you sign anything.
3	YOU	The reading, one digit to a box	Tick 5 or 6 digit, put the mileage in the printed boxes, and write the date you read it underneath. Watch out: The parenthesis beside the second statement on this form is a useful piece of plain English: in excess of its mechanical limits applies to 5 digit odometers. That is what it is for, and nothing else.
4	YOU	One of the three statements	Reflects the actual mileage, is in excess of its mechanical limits, or is not the actual mileage - the last carrying its own warning of an odometer discrepancy. Watch out: The caution printed to the left says to read carefully before checking a box, and it is not decoration. This is the disclosure in its purest form: no vehicle description to hide behind, no sale details, just a number and a statement about it.
5	YOU	Seller's printed name, signature and address	Name, signature and the full street address, city, state and zip in the upper block. Watch out: Both blocks want a complete address, which the certificate's own transfer section does not. That is because this sheet may end up separated from everything else, and an address is what makes it traceable.
6	BUYER	Buyer's printed name, signature and address	The same four lines in the lower block. The form's title calls it an acknowledgment, and this is it. Watch out: Copies should be exchanged between the seller and the buyer, and a dealer has to keep theirs for five years. A private seller with no filing cabinet should still keep one somewhere findable for as long as the car is on the road.

What gets this one rejected

- Using it when you have a usable Florida title. The instructions say not to, where a Florida title issued on or after April 29, 1990 is available.
- Using it where a dealer reassignment supplement or a dealer power of attorney has already carried the disclosure.
- Using it with an out-of-state title that already conforms to federal law.
- One signature. The whole document is a disclosure by one party and an acknowledgment by the other, and it does not work with only half.
