How to fill out T-11 — Affidavit of Correction

Georgia · written against T-11 (9/2025), issued under the Motor Vehicle Division, and filed where the buyer or transferee resides

sellmycarhub.com
/forms/georgia/t-11-affidavit-of-correction/

The seller's apology for a strikeover. When something in the assignment on the back of the certificate has been corrected - a misspelling, a name written in the wrong block, a change of mind about who the buyer is - this notarised affidavit is what a county tag office needs before it will look past it. It is completed by the seller, not the buyer.

This sheet is not the form. Download the blank T-11 from the Georgia Department of Revenue, Motor Vehicle Division at <https://dor.georgia.gov/document/document/t-11-affidavit-correctionpdf/download?f=T-11.pdf> — always take the current revision from the agency rather than a copy. Print this and keep it beside you while you complete theirs.

Every line, in the order you meet it

1	YOU	Section A, the reason you ticked	One of nine printed reasons, from a typographical error through to a strikeover in the purchaser's name. Watch out: Pick the one that describes what actually happened. A tag office reading typographical error against an assignment made out to the wrong person entirely is being asked to accept a different account of events.
2	YOU	Section A, the Other box	The tenth box, with a tall free-text block beside it for a reason none of the nine cover. Watch out: If one of the nine fits, use it. The free-text block invites a paragraph, and a paragraph invites questions the printed boxes do not.
3	YOU	Section B, vehicle information	The VIN exactly as the certificate prints it, with year, make and model. Watch out: Copy the VIN off the certificate being corrected. The affidavit and the document it explains have to point at the same vehicle.
4	YOU	Section C, your full legal name	First name, middle initial, last name and suffix, in four separate boxes. Watch out: The name here has to be the name in the assignment being corrected - you are certifying that you are the seller who made the correction, which only works if the two match.
5	YOU	Section C, signature and date	Your signature and the date, beside the printed certification. Watch out: Sign in front of the notary. The certification is sworn, and section D is an acknowledgement of a signature the notary watched being made.
6	YOU	Section D, the notary block	Day, month and year, then the notary's full legal name, physical address, e-mail address, telephone number, signature and commission expiry. Watch out: Georgia asks for the notary's contact details as well as the seal, which is more than most states want. A block missing the telephone number or the e-mail address is incomplete.

What gets this one rejected

- Using it where correction fluid or an erasure has been used. The purpose paragraph rules that out in terms: this affidavit cannot be used when information has been blocked out by erasure or the use of correction fluid.
- Using it on an odometer reading. The important information block repeats it - this affidavit cannot correct an incorrectly entered odometer reading, and the Form T-107 odometer discrepancy affidavit is what does.
- Using it on a purchase or transfer date. That correction needs a $10.00 title penalty, a copy of the front and back of the cheque between the seller and the buyer supporting the change, and a replacement title or statement of origin for proper assignment with the correct date.
- Using it on a lienholder recorded in error. The form says that is a Form T-4 and that it has to be completed by the incorrectly recorded lien or security interest holder.
- The buyer filing it. Section C certifies that the person signing is the seller or transferor in the assignment where the correction was made.
- Skipping the notary. The instructions say the affidavit must be notarised by a commissioned notary public, and the certification is sworn.
