

How to fill out 3414 — Affidavit of Inheritance

Idaho · written against 3414 (Rev 12/24), issued under Idaho Code 49-514

Six bullet points that move a vehicle out of a dead person's name without a court. It is the no-will, no-probate route, and every one of the six has to be true at once: the claimant is a survivor or heir, the decedent died intestate, the decedent has no remaining creditors, the decedent did not leave other property necessitating probate, no other heirs have prior right to the named vehicle, and the decedent was the titled owner with the claimant entitled to succeed. ITD's Surviving Spouse Guide is the plain-English companion - if the estate was not and will not be probated, the priority heir may claim ownership and then transfer the title.

This sheet is not the form. Download the blank 3414 from the Idaho Transportation Department, Division of Motor Vehicles at <https://itd.idaho.gov/wp-content/uploads/2025/04/3414.pdf> — always take the current revision from the agency rather than a copy. Print this and keep it beside you while you complete theirs.

Every line, in the order you meet it

1	YOU	Ring the county first	ITD's own guide tells a surviving family to contact the county assessor's DMV office, and lists what to be ready to answer. Watch out: Four questions: when the person died, whether they left a will, whether the estate has been or will be probated, and who was appointed if it was.
2	YOU	Check the six bullets against your facts	No will, no probate, no creditors, no other property needing administration, no heir with a better claim, and the decedent on the title. Watch out: If any one of them is not true, this is the wrong form and signing it anyway is perjury with a hold-harmless attached.
3	YOU	Identify the vehicle and the decedent	VIN, title number, year, make, model, the name of the deceased and the date of death. Watch out: Take the VIN off the certificate if you have it. If you do not, the form's lost-title line covers you, but the county will want the number to be right.
4	YOU	List the other heirs	Names and addresses in the table, where there are any. Watch out: Listing a sibling does not give them a claim. Concealing one is what the sworn bullet about prior right is aimed at.
5	YOU	Print your relationship and sign	Printed name, relationship to the deceased, phone number, address, signature and date. Watch out: No notary. The certification is under penalty of perjury pursuant to the law of the State of Idaho, which is the standard Idaho formula.
6	YOU	Take it in with the title and the registration	The guide's list: the title for each vehicle, the registration document for each vehicle, and the court document if there was probate. Watch out: Bring the plates into the conversation too. Special-eligibility, disability and military plates are no longer valid and must be replaced.
7	YOU	Then sell it as any other owner would	Once the title is in your name, the assignment, the bill of sale and the five-day notice work exactly as they do in any Idaho sale. Watch out: Selling to a parent, child, brother, sister, grandparent or grandchild? Form ST-133 lifts the sales tax on the transfer, and you sign the seller's half of it.

What gets this one rejected

- A will. The affidavit certifies the decedent died intestate, and a will takes the estate somewhere else entirely.
- An estate that is being probated, or is going to be. The Surviving Spouse Guide routes a probated estate to the personal representative, executor or administrator with a certified copy of the court document.
- Outstanding creditors, or other property that needs administering. Two of the six bullets, and both are about the estate rather than the vehicle.
- An heir with a better claim left off the table. Naming other heirs is not a courtesy; the affidavit swears that none of them has prior right.
- A claimant who is not in fact an heir. It is a perjury certification with a hold-harmless attached to it.
- Using it where the title says OR and the survivor is already on it. In that case the Surviving Spouse Guide says the survivor simply signs the seller's line, which is far simpler.
