The mileage statement on a sheet of its own, for when the block on the certificate cannot be used - spoiled, full, or missing from an older title. It carries the identical certification the title carries, because both are the wording Section 3-112.1 of the Vehicle Code prints in quotation marks.

Every line, in the order you meet it

|   |       |                                           |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |
|---|-------|-------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| 1 | YOU   | Your name, in the certification sentence  | The first blank sits inside the sentence rather than under a label: I, _____, certify to the best of my knowledge that the odometer reading now reads... Watch out: Print it the way the certificate has it. This sentence is the statement; the name in it is who is making it.             |
| 2 | YOU   | The reading                               | Whole miles into the second blank, which is labelled no tenths on its own line. Watch out: Read it off the dash with the ignition on, not off the last service invoice. A digital cluster that shows a trip meter by default has caught out better people than you.                          |
| 3 | YOU   | The two boxes                             | In excess of its mechanical limits, or not the actual mileage - warning, odometer discrepancy. Watch out: Both are admissions and neither is an exemption. If the car is old enough that no statement is required at all, the answer is not to use this form, rather than to tick something. |
| 4 | YOU   | Year, Make, Body Type, Model              | Four boxes across one row. Watch out: Body type is not the model. Illinois wants a body description in one and the model name in the other, and putting the model in both leaves a clerk guessing.                                                                                           |
| 5 | YOU   | Vehicle Identification Number             | Seventeen characters into the long box under the vehicle row. Watch out: Copy from the certificate. The disclosure only means anything against a vehicle that can be identified.                                                                                                             |
| 6 | YOU   | Seller's Signature - no field, on purpose | A printed rule between the VIN box and your printed name. It carries no fillable field. Watch out: Sign it in ink. On the sample above it is left blank so you can see that the gap is real and not an oversight in our copy.                                                                |
| 7 | YOU   | Printed name, address, certification date | Your name, a street line, a city, state and ZIP line, and the date you are certifying. Watch out: The certification date is the date you sign, and it should not be later than the date of sale on the rest of the paperwork.                                                                |
| 8 | BUYER | The buyer's half                          | Signature on a rule with no field, printed name, street, city, state and ZIP, and an acknowledgment date. Watch out: The buyer is acknowledging your statement, not making one of their own. Leave it and the sheet is an assertion nobody has received.                                     |

What gets this one rejected

- Using it to correct a reading already written on a title. Illinois handles a mistake in the assignment on VSD 393 - which then says in a note that it cannot itself be used for odometer disclosure or corrections. Read both sentences before choosing a form.
- Filling in only the top half. The lower half is headed to be completed by the buyer and their acknowledgment is what makes the statement a disclosure rather than an assertion.
- Tenths. The box says no tenths and the certification underneath mentions fines and imprisonment in the same sentence.
- Typing the signatures. The two signature rules are the only lines on the sheet with no fillable field behind them, which is as clear a hint as a form gives.
- Filling in the left-hand copy. The Secretary of State prints this form twice on one sheet and made only the right-hand copy fillable.
