How to fill out State Form 43230 — Odometer Disclosure Statement

The mileage certification on its own sheet, for the transfers where the certificate's own odometer statement will not serve - a title that has no space left, an electronic title with no face to write on, or a correction to a reading already made. Its opening instruction is the clearest statement Indiana publishes of who owes the disclosure to whom: the seller of a motor vehicle must disclose the current mileage to a purchaser in writing upon transfer of ownership.

This sheet is not the form. Download the blank State Form 43230 from the Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles at <https://forms.in.gov/Download.aspx?id=5061&f=/in-sf43230.pdf> — always take the current revision from the agency rather than a copy. Print this and keep it beside you while you complete theirs.

Every line, in the order you meet it

1	YOU	I, _____	The printed names of all sellers on the first ruled line, spelled as the certificate spells them. Watch out: This is the line the whole certification hangs off. A shortened first name here and a full one on the certificate is a mismatch somebody has to ask about.
2	YOU	residing at _____	Number and street, city, state and ZIP on the second ruled line. Watch out: Your address, not the buyer's and not where the car has been kept. The purchaser has a block of their own further down.
3	YOU	The reading, in whole miles	The current figure in the box marked Miles (no tenths). Watch out: Read it off the dash on the day of the handover. A reading taken a fortnight earlier and a car that has been driven since is a small lie that gets printed onto somebody else's title.
4	YOU	The two numbered statements	Tick one only if it is true: mileage in excess of its mechanical limits, or a reading that is NOT the actual mileage and should not be relied upon. Watch out: The second one carries the words WARNING - ODOMETER DISCREPANCY into the buyer's record permanently. It is the right answer for a swapped cluster and the wrong answer for an instrument you simply do not trust.
5	YOU	The vehicle	Make, Model, Year and Body Type on one row, then the Vehicle Identification Number and the Transfer Date. Watch out: Copy the identification number off the certificate rather than off the windscreen plate. Seventeen characters read through glass at arm's length is where a transposed digit comes from.
6	YOU	Sign and date it	Signature(s) of Seller(s) and the date, under the sentence about not holding the Bureau responsible for any discrepancy shown on the odometer reading. Watch out: Only one of two sellers has to sign this particular form. That is a concession the certificate does not make, so do not read it as a general rule.
7	YOU	Fill in the purchaser's details for them	Printed name, address, city, state and ZIP in the PURCHASER'S INFORMATION band. Watch out: Same spelling as the certificate's purchaser section. The two documents are read together and a different middle initial across them is a query, not a detail.
8	BUYER	The buyer's acknowledgement	Signature and date under the words I am aware of and acknowledge the above odometer certification made by the seller(s). Watch out: Get it signed while they are standing in front of you, and take a photograph of it. Instruction 2 says they return a copy to you, and in practice nobody ever does unless it is done on the spot.

What gets this one rejected

- Tenths of a mile. The label beside the box says no tenths, and a decimal reading is not the figure a branch will key.
- Both numbered statements ticked. They are alternatives - a reading past the mechanical limits is a different claim from a reading that cannot be relied on.
- Neither statement ticked when one is true. The sentence above them certifies actual mileage by default, so silence is itself a certification.
- An empty purchaser band. Instruction 2 says the purchaser must sign the disclosure statement, including printed name and address, and return a copy to the seller.
- Pencil, or a colour the branch cannot photocopy. Instruction 3 asks for the form to be completed in its entirety, in blue or black ink.
- A transfer date that disagrees with the date of sale on the certificate. The two documents describe one handover and a branch reads them side by side.
