The seller's apology form. When something on the certificate was entered in error - a wrong date of sale, a price that came out of the wrong column, a purchaser's name spelled from memory - this is how it gets corrected without spoiling the title. It is signed by the seller, not the buyer, and it is the form to reach for the moment you notice, because its own instruction warns that illegible titles will not be accepted.

This sheet is not the form. Download the blank State Form 55582 from the Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles at <https://forms.in.gov/Download.aspx?id=11642&f=/in-sf55582.pdf> — always take the current revision from the agency rather than a copy. Print this and keep it beside you while you complete theirs.

Every line, in the order you meet it

1	YOU	Seller name, in the BMV's order	Last, first, middle initial - or the company name - in the first box of section 1. Watch out: Your name as the certificate carries it. This affidavit is being matched to a title record, and a nickname in this box makes that harder than it needs to be.
2	YOU	Certificate of Title Number and Title Issue Date	The number of the certificate being corrected and the date printed on it. Watch out: Marked if applicable, which tempts people to skip it. Fill it in anyway - it is the only thing on the page that ties the correction to one specific document.
3	YOU	The vehicle	The identification number in the banded box, then Year, Make and Model. Watch out: Copy the seventeen characters off the certificate. If the identification number itself is what was written wrong, this is not the form - that is a fault in the title record and the branch needs to see the vehicle.
4	YOU	Tick only what is actually wrong	Odometer Reading or Brand, Date of Sale, Selling Price, Trade in Price, Total Price Paid, Name of Purchaser, or Other. Watch out: Each tick has its own correction box beside it and each one is a separate sworn statement. Ticking a line and leaving the figure blank asserts an error without correcting it.
5	YOU	If it is the odometer, attach the statement	A separate conforming odometer statement, required by the printed condition inside that tick box. Watch out: Conforming means it carries the same certification the certificate does - the reading, the two exception statements and your signature. A note on a scrap of paper is not one.
6	YOU	Other, and the space beneath it	A tick and a free-text area for anything the six named lines do not cover. Watch out: Write it plainly and write the correct value out in full. Somebody at a counter is going to key exactly what is in that box.
7	YOU	Sign, and get the second owner to sign	Two signature rows with printed names and dates. Watch out: Both owners signed the certificate, so both owners correct it. One signature on a correction to a jointly-owned car is half an affidavit.
8	YOU	Give it to the buyer	It goes to the branch with the certificate when the purchaser applies for their title. Watch out: Post it or hand it over quickly. The buyer's forty-five days are already running and they cannot file without it once the certificate carries an error.

What gets this one rejected

- The buyer signing it. Section 1 is the affirmation of seller(s) and the request is that the BMV correct the information upon application for certificate of title by the purchaser.
- Correcting an odometer reading without attaching a separate conforming odometer statement. The condition is printed inside the tick box itself.
- Using it to change who bought the car after somebody else has taken possession. The purchaser tick carries its own qualification and that is what it qualifies.
- Using it on a title that has already been scribbled over. Instruction 2 covers a certificate that contains errors, erasures or alterations, and adds that illegible ones are refused outright.
- Ticking Other and explaining nothing. The box says explain below and the space beneath it is not optional.
- Sending it without the title number. Section 1 asks for the Certificate of Title Number and the Title Issue Date so the correction attaches to a specific document.

☐ Amber is what you write ☐ Grey is a block somebody else completes The filled-in example is at the start of this sheet.
