Missouri · written against Form 1957 (Rev 08-2019), issued under RSMo 301.196

Missouri's bill of sale, and the second document that satisfies the thirty-day notice requirement - the Department names it alongside Form 5049 for exactly that job. It is laid out for four kinds of property at once, with separate blocks for a motor vehicle, a boat, an outboard motor and a unit taken in even trade, and a notary block at the foot that is only used in two narrow situations.

This sheet is not the form. Download the blank Form 1957 from the Missouri Department of Revenue at <https://dor.mo.gov/forms/1957.pdf> — always take the current revision from the agency rather than a copy. Print this and keep it beside you while you complete theirs.

Every line, in the order you meet it

1	YOU	The two columns at the top	Purchaser's names typed or printed on the left with their address beneath, seller's on the right with yours. Watch out: They are not in the order you expect. The buyer is the left-hand column on this form, and writing your own details there is the commonest way it comes back.
2	YOU	Year, make and title number	The motor vehicle band, taken off the face of the certificate. Watch out: The title number is the long number printed at the top right of a Missouri title, not the vehicle identification number - both have a box on this row.
3	YOU	Vehicle identification number	Seventeen characters, in the widest box on the row. Watch out: Read it back against the title once you have written it. This form may end up standing in for the bill of sale when the buyer titles the car, and a wrong character makes it useless for that.
4	YOU	Sale date and sale price	Eight date cells and a price, both in the motor vehicle block. Watch out: Where you are using this instead of Form 5049, the sale date is what the thirty days runs from - and the Department wants it to match the date on the title assignment.
5	YOU	The even-trade half	Blocks for a boat, a trailer and an outboard motor, and a Unit or Vehicle Traded For band underneath them. Watch out: Leave all of it empty on an ordinary cash sale. The form's own note is only to complete the traded-for section if an even trade occurred.
6	YOU	Sold for destruction	A Yes and a No box beside the signature lines. Watch out: No, unless the car is genuinely going to a scrapyard. It is a declaration about the unit rather than a description of its condition, and it follows the vehicle.
7	YOU	One signature from each side	Signature of One Purchaser and Signature of One Seller, under the perjury declaration. Watch out: One of each is enough on this form even where two people own the car - which is the opposite of the title assignment, where every owner on the face has to sign.
8	YOU	The notary block, usually empty	The whole band at the bottom of the sheet, from the stamp box on the left to the expiry date on the right. Watch out: Read the line above it before you book anything. Notary required for rebuilt vehicle or when specifically requested to be notarized by the Department of Revenue - on an ordinary sale, neither applies.

What gets this one rejected

- Leaving the sale price out. On a bill of sale that is the point of the document, and where it stands in for a notice of sale the Department is reading it for the price.
- Filling in the even-trade half of the form when nothing was traded. The traded-for block describes a second unit changing hands, not a part exchange against cash.
- Getting it notarised when nothing calls for it, or skipping the notary when something does. The printed condition is proof of ownership on major component parts of a rebuilt vehicle, or a specific request from the Department.
- Using it as a substitute for assigning the title. Missouri transfers ownership by assignment of the certificate under RSMo 301.210; a bill of sale records the transaction and does not move the title.
- Ticking Sold For Destruction on a car that is going to be driven. It is a statement about the unit's future, and it is beside the signature for a reason.

☐ Amber is what you write ☐ Grey is a block somebody else completes The filled-in example is at the start of this sheet.
