The small-estate route, on one page. Where an owner has died and the estate is modest enough, a survivor swears to five facts and the vehicle transfers without probate and without a court order. It is the only form in the Utah private-seller set with a notary block on the applicant's own side of the page, and the five facts it certifies are not negotiable - each one is a condition in Utah Code 75-3-1201 rather than an assurance the Division has invented.

This sheet is not the form. Download the blank TC-569C from the Utah State Tax Commission, Motor Vehicle Division at <https://files.tax.utah.gov/tax/forms/current/tc-569c.pdf> — always take the current revision from the agency rather than a copy. Print this and keep it beside you while you complete theirs.

Every line, in the order you meet it

1	YOU	Section 1, the vehicle	Year, make, model, identification number, body type, plate and the state it was registered in. Watch out: Take the details off the certificate of title if you can find it. If you cannot, the duplicate title application route runs in parallel and the survivor signs that instead.
2	YOU	Section 2, the decedent	The name as the title prints it, the city and state where the death occurred, and the date of death. Watch out: The date of death is what the thirty-day wait is measured from, and it is the first thing a clerk checks against the calendar.
3	YOU	Section 3, the survivor	Your own name and address, above the block of certifications. Watch out: Read all five certifications before writing anything. If any one of them is untrue the route is probate, and finding that out at the notary's desk is expensive.
4	YOU	The signature, and the notary	The survivor signs and a notary subscribes and swears the affidavit on the same line. Watch out: Sign in front of the notary. This is the only document in the Utah seller's set where that is a requirement rather than a habit.
5	BUYER	Section 4, the new owner	Who the vehicle is going to, with an address and a co-owner block if two people are taking it. Watch out: If the survivor is keeping the car, they go here as well as in Section 3. If it is being sold, the buyer goes here and the survivor still signs the ownership document in the prescribed as-survivor format.

What gets this one rejected

- Signed before thirty days have passed. The wait is a statutory condition and the affidavit certifies to it in the first person.
- Used where a personal representative has been appointed or an application is pending. The affidavit says the opposite, and the Division's guidance is that an estate outside these conditions goes through probate and comes back with documentation signed by a judge.
- Used where the vehicle still has an active lienholder. The Division lists a clear lien as one of the conditions for taking this route at all.
- Filed on a fifth vehicle. The limit counts boats, motor vehicles, trailers and semi-trailers together, not cars alone.
- Unnotarised. This is the one affidavit in the set that is sworn, and the block is on the same line as the survivor's own signature.
- An estate over the ceiling. The figure excludes the vehicles themselves and is taken after liens and encumbrances, which is a calculation worth doing on paper before signing.
