How to fill out TC-656 — Vehicle Application for Utah Title and Registration

Utah · written against TC-656 (Rev 7/26), issued under Utah Code 41-1a-512 and 41-1a-703

The cover sheet for a Utah title packet, and the one document in a private sale that a seller normally never touches. Two pages and seven sections, opening with a row of tick boxes that decides what the whole application is - new title, registration, change of ownership, change of lien-holder, corrected title, salvage title, non-repairable title or dismantling permit. A seller should still know it exists, because the Division names it as the form that stands in for an owner who cannot be at the counter, including on a virtual appointment.

This sheet is not the form. Download the blank TC-656 from the Utah State Tax Commission, Motor Vehicle Division at <https://files.tax.utah.gov/tax/forms/current/tc-656.pdf> — always take the current revision from the agency rather than a copy. Print this and keep it beside you while you complete theirs.

Every line, in the order you meet it

1	BUYER	Type of application: change of ownership	One tick in the top row. Watch out: A private purchase is a change of ownership even where the buyer also wants a new plate. Ticking new title instead sends the application down a different route.
2	BUYER	Section 1, the new owner	Name, email, identification number and its type, the issuing state, and both addresses where they differ. Watch out: Every owner named here has to produce government-issued identification at the counter. Adding a spouse to be helpful means bringing that spouse, or bringing this form signed by them.
3	BUYER	And or Or	One tick at the top right of Section 1, where two owners are being recorded. Watch out: This is the conjunction that will be printed between the names on the new certificate, and it decides how many signatures the next sale needs. Couples usually want Or and usually tick And by accident.
4	BUYER	Section 3, the vehicle and the price	Year, make, model, colour, identification number, cylinders, fuel, body style and the purchase price. Watch out: The purchase price should be the one on the bill of sale. If the two disagree, the Division has two documents about one sale and will ask which is true.
5	BUYER	Vehicle Type	One tick in the block on page two - for most sales, passenger, light truck, van or utility. Watch out: The boxes below it are for trailers, motor homes, off-highway vehicles and heavy trucks, and each opens a set of extra fields. An ordinary car needs one tick and nothing else from that block.
6	BUYER	Odometer Reading and certification	The reading and one of the three certifications, copied from the ownership document. Watch out: Copy it from the title or the bill of sale rather than reading the dashboard on the day of filing. A car driven home three hundred miles will not match, and the counter reads the two together.
7	BUYER	Section 4, the plate	A plate type, or a plate number in the Transfer field where a plate is being moved onto the vehicle. Watch out: Transferring plates does not transfer any leftover registration - that is the Division's own warning, and it surprises people who expect to inherit six months of tags.
8	BUYER	Section 6, signature	Owner and co-owner signatures and dates, under the ownership declaration and the insurance certification. Watch out: The insurance sentence is part of what is being signed. It is a promise about the future, not a statement about the day of the sale.

What gets this one rejected

- The And/Or question left unanswered where two owners are named. It decides who can sell the car next, and the Division cannot infer it.
- An identification number missing. The label says required, and every owner listed on the application has to provide government-issued identification.
- An odometer reading that does not match the one on the ownership document. Two figures for one handover is the fastest way to a held application.
- Anything written in Section 7. It carries the words For Utah Dealership Use Only in its own heading.
- A post-office box given as the street address. The physical address decides the tax rate and whether an emissions certificate is needed.
- The type-of-application row left blank. Nothing else on the page tells the Division what it is being asked to do.

☐ Amber is what you write ☐ Grey is a block somebody else completes The filled-in example is at the start of this sheet.
