How to fill out 420-001A — Vehicle Title Application

Additional Owners

Washington · written against 420-001A (R/5/19), issued under RCW 46.12.530

The overflow sheet. The Vehicle Title Application has room for two registered owners and one lienholder; a car going into three names, or one carrying two lenders, runs out of boxes. This continuation sheet carries owners three and four and lienholders two and three, and it is stapled to the application rather than filed on its own.

This sheet is not the form. Download the blank 420-001A from the Washington State Department of Licensing at <https://dol.wa.gov/sites/default/files/forms/420001A.pdf> — always take the current revision from the agency rather than a copy. Print this and keep it beside you while you complete theirs.

Every line, in the order you meet it

1	BUYER	The identification number at the top	Seventeen characters, repeated from the main application. Watch out: Fill this in first. A continuation sheet that becomes separated from its application and carries no identification number cannot be matched back to anything.
2	BUYER	Registered owner 3	Owner type, identification type and number, expiry, phone type and number. Watch out: The numbering continues from the main form. Starting again at one here is how an application ends up appearing to name two owner threes.
3	BUYER	Owner 3's full name and address	Last, first, middle and suffix, then the Washington primary residence street address. Watch out: The same address rule applies to every additional owner. A third owner living out of state needs the residence exception form, not a mailing address in the residence line.
4	BUYER	Registered owner 4 and survivorship	A second owner band with the joint tenants with right of survivorship question beside it. Watch out: Answer it deliberately. With three or four names on a certificate the difference between survivorship and tenants in common is the difference between a phone call and a probate.
5	LENDER	Legal owner or lienholder 2 and 3	Two further lender blocks with identification and an electronic-titles tick each. Watch out: Rare on a private sale, and worth querying if a buyer is filling them in - two lenders on one used car is unusual enough to be a mistake.
6	BUYER	Signatures, one per additional owner	Each additional owner signs with the date and the city or county where they signed. Watch out: They have to be present. A signature collected at home and brought along is exactly what the notarisation block below exists to prevent.
7	BUYER	The notarisation block	State, county, date, the names of the people signing, and the notary or agent's details. Watch out: It names the people signing this document. An owner who could not come to the counter is not covered by it, however many other signatures are.

What gets this one rejected

- Sending it in by itself. It is an attachment, and there is nothing on it that identifies the transaction except the identification number at the top.
- Leaving that identification number off, which is the commonest way this sheet becomes unusable.
- An unsigned owner. Every registered owner named on the continuation sheet signs it, in front of the notary or the licensing agent, exactly as on the main form.
- Using it for a co-buyer who fits on the main application. Owners one and two belong on the form itself.
- A business named without the person signing showing their title. There is a title line beside each signature for exactly that.

☒ Amber is what you write ☐ Grey is a block somebody else completes The filled-in example is at the start of this sheet.
