LICENSING

Junk Vehicle Affidavit

Law enforcement officers and authorized junk vehicle inspectors use this form to certify that an abandoned vehicle qualifies as a junk vehicle. Landowners use this form to notify the last owner (if known) of the vehicle, to certify that the vehicle owner was notified and has not redeemed the vehicle, and as an ownership document for retitling, selling, or disposing of the vehicle. Contact a law enforcement agency or an authorized junk vehicle inspector to arrange for inspection of the vehicle.

To qualify as a junk vehicle, the vehicle must meet three of the following conditions:

- Must be at least three years old
- Must be extensively damaged
- Must be apparently inoperable
- Must have a fair market value equal only to the approximate value of the scrap of the vehicle

Vehicle owners rights

You have the right to arrange to remove your vehicle from the property where it is located within 15 days after the date this form was mailed to you. If you do not remove your vehicle, the owner of the property may dispose of it or may sign an Affidavit of Sale to be used as an ownership document to sell or retitle it.

Landowner

To request an abandoned junk vehicle inspection you must be the legal owner or person with possession or control of, or the public official with jurisdiction over, the property where the vehicle described on page one of this form is located.

Mail a copy of this entire form to both the registered and legal owner(s) of the vehicle described on page 1, or if no owner information was found, check the proper box below.

Check one:

- ☒ I mailed a copy of this Junk Vehicle Disposal Affidavit to the registered and legal owners of the vehicle more than 15 days ago and the owners have not redeemed the vehicle.
- ☐ No registered or legal owners information could be found.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the law of Washington that the foregoing is true and correct.

A landowner's form, signed by a police officer or an authorised inspector, and the end of the road for a vehicle that has been abandoned on somebody's property. For a seller it is the other side of a mirror: it is the document that turns your abandoned car into somebody else's property, and it is also the route out for a landowner who has ended up with a vehicle nobody has claimed.

This sheet is not the form. Download the blank 420-549 from the Washington State Department of Licensing at <https://dol.wa.gov/sites/default/files/forms/420549.pdf> — always take the current revision from the agency rather than a copy. Print this and keep it beside you while you complete theirs.

Every line, in the order you meet it

1	VERIFIER	The three-of-four test	At least three years old, extensively damaged, apparently inoperable, and worth only its scrap value. Three of the four have to be true. Watch out: This is read before anything is filled in. A vehicle that fails the test is not a junk vehicle, and the rest of the form has nothing to attach to.
2	YOU	The landowner and the location	Name, telephone, and the street address where the vehicle actually is - with a separate mailing address if that differs. Watch out: The location is where the inspector will go. A description like behind the barn is not an address, and the inspection does not happen.
3	YOU	Public property, and the requesting agency	A yes-or-no tick, with a line for the agency if the vehicle is on public land. Watch out: A vehicle on public property is somebody else's process entirely. Ticking yes here hands the form to the agency with jurisdiction.
4	VERIFIER	The vehicle band	Plate number and state, year, make and the identification number. Watch out: Where the plate is gone the identification number carries the whole record. An inspector who cannot find one will say so, and the vehicle takes a different route.
5	VERIFIER	Registered and legal owner	Both blocks, completed from the record - and the word none where no owner can be found. Watch out: Blank and none are not the same answer. Blank looks like an incomplete form; none is a finding.
6	VERIFIER	The lettered parts list	Twenty-two ticks from engine and transmission to trunk lid and rear window. Watch out: This is the evidence for the damage limb of the test. An inspector ticking two boxes on an otherwise complete car has not established anything.
7	VERIFIER	The inspector's certification	Name, badge or personnel number, agency, and the signature certifying the vehicle qualifies as a junk vehicle. Watch out: It is signed by law enforcement or an authorised inspector. A landowner signing it has produced a document the department will not accept.
8	YOU	The landowner's fifteen-day declaration	One of two ticks on page two - either that copies were posted to both owners more than fifteen days ago and nobody redeemed the vehicle, or that no owner could be found. Watch out: Sign this before the fifteen days have run and the affidavit of sale beneath it is worthless, however carefully the rest was completed.
9	YOU	The affidavit of sale	Purchaser's name and address, the landowner's signature, and a notary or agent block. Watch out: This is the section that becomes an ownership document, so it is the one that has to be notarised. The rest of the form is a report; this part is a title.

What gets this one rejected

- A vehicle meeting only two of the four conditions. Three is the threshold and the form states it before anything else.
- A landowner completing the inspector's half. The certification is signed by a law enforcement officer or an authorised junk vehicle inspector, and nobody else.
- Signing the affidavit of sale before the fifteen days have run. The clock starts on the day the form was mailed to the owners.
- An unnotarised affidavit of sale. The instruction is explicit: sign the affidavit of sale below for use as an ownership document and have it notarized.
- Leaving the registered or legal owner blocks empty. Where no owner is found the instruction is to enter none rather than to skip the block.
- Assuming a junked vehicle can simply be driven afterwards. If it is to be operated again, the form and the vehicle go to the state patrol for inspection and a separate inspection form goes with the title application.

☒ Amber is what you write ☐ Grey is a block somebody else completes The filled-in example is at the start of this sheet.
